Illness kills student

University warns students of meningitis symptoms

By ANDY PURCELL
Campus editor

An Eastern sophomore died Sunday after being hospitalized earlier in the day with meningococemia, a blood infection caused by meningitis-related bacteria.

Lou Rainaldi, 20, a sports medicine major from Darien who lived on the third floor of the north building of Taylor Hall, died shortly after 6 p.m. at Carle Foundation Hospital in Urbana.

Rainaldi was taken to Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Care Center shortly after midnight Sunday and was later transferred to Urbana.

Meningitis is a mildly contagious bacterial disorder that inflames the lining surrounding the brain and spinal cord.

"All I can say is I feel very, very sorry for the family and friends of Louis, and that comes straight from the heart," said Lou Hencken, vice president for student affairs.

Rainaldi is the second student in two years to die of meningitis. Eastern sophomore Peter G. Giese died in February 1992 of the same form of meningitis. More than 6,000 students went to the Health Service for preventive medicine after Giese's death.

University officials began putting up posters around campus Sunday afternoon to warn students of the disease's symptoms.

Symptoms are often flu-like, including sore throat, achiness, upset stomach or stiff neck.

Hencken said only those students who have had direct contact with Rainaldi in the last few days should seek medication.

Health Service Director Dr. Richard Larson said the Health Service will offer Rifampin, an oral antibiotic, for $1.50 per dose.

Rainaldi was taken to the hospital by Mike Walker, a senior pre-med major who lived across the hall from him, and his girlfriend, Stacey Chapman.

"I checked in on him and talked with him," Walker said. "He's usually very energetic, but when I went in, he was lying on his side and wasn't very coherent. I also noticed some discolorations on his face and chest."

Chapman said, "I could tell he was very incoherent and looked very weak."

Walker said Rainaldi, who does not drink or smoke and exercises regularly, had been sick since Friday

Student receives chemical burns, remains critical

By DAVID M. PUTNEY

A 20-year-old sophomore suffered third-degree chemical burns on 63 percent of his body after he reportedly spent several hours Sunday morning lying unconscious in a pile of caustic chemicals, Charleston police said.

Greg McCoy, 20, of Lovington was listed in critical condition late Sunday in the burn unit of Springfield Memorial Hospital. Charleston police are still investigating an incident in which McCoy either fell or was pushed into a pile of lime near Third Street and Washington Avenue, said Lt. Rick Fisher of the Charleston police.

McCoy's father, Robert, told WCIA-TV in Champaign that his son was placed in the pit as part of a hazing ritual by Delta Sigma Phi fraternity. The parents would not comment when contacted by The Daily Eastern News.

McCoy's roommate, who asked his name be withheld, said McCoy may have been in the lime several hours before he was discovered by the police officer.

Fisher said McCoy appeared to be intoxicated at the time he was found by a Charleston police officer.

Delta Sigma Phi President Jason Steinke said he is not sure if McCoy was drinking with fraternity members before the incident.

"If he was drinking with them, it could be hazing," Steinke said.

Because McCoy was pledging the fraternity, the incident is being closely scrutinized by Eastern officials, said Eileen Sullivan, assistant director of student activities for greek affairs.

Fisher said Charleston and campus police are not investigating it as a hazing incident.

McCoy's roommate said the fraternity's ties to the incident are being investigated. Sullivan said she had not contacted the fraternity as of Sunday evening because she was waiting for the police investigation to continue.

"If the university finds that it has anything to do with hazing, it will be investigated," Sullivan said. "We will be investigating it regardless."

How meningitis affects the brain

Bacterial and viral meningitis is spread to the brain through the bloodstream from the respiratory system.

There, meningitis affects the membranes surrounding the brain and the spinal cord.

Signs and symptoms

Symptoms include headache, back pain, muscle aches and sensitivity to light in the eyes.

Preventive medication

Health Service will be distributing an antibiotic called Rifampin to students who may have come in contact with the victim.

Rifampin has several side effects, including diarrhea, stomach cramps and discoloration of urine; stool, saliva, sweat and tears.

When taking Rifampin, alcohol and certain medications should not be taken.

Mixed reactions

Floormates of meningitis victim will take medication, but will not panic

By CHAD GALLAGHER
Staff writer

Floormates of a student who died of meningitis Sunday said they were planning to take preventative medication but had mixed emotions about the situation.

Lou Rainaldi, a 20-year-old sophomore from Darien, died Sunday evening after contracting meningococemia, a strain of meningitis. Rainaldi was a resident on the third floor of Taylor Hall's north side.

Sophomore Dan Salzman, Rainaldi's roommate, said he has mixed emotions about the situation but will "definitely be taking the medicine."

"It is something that happens and I'm taking it seriously, but I am also not going to blow it totally out of proportion,"

• Health Service offers preventive medicine. Page 3.

Salzman said.

"People on the floor should have some concerns and take precautions but the students who don't even know Lou or haven't been around him shouldn't flock to Health Service and use up my money for their paranoia," he said.

Floor residents said Rainaldi seemed agitated and was exhibiting strange behavior — one of the symptoms of the virus.

"I saw Lou Friday night and he seemed fine but then later he flipped out and started arguing with everyone," said Dan Dahlquist, Rainaldi's neighbor. "He even verbally attacked our resident assistant, which is totally uncharacteristic of Lou."

Craig Crafton, a freshman who lives on the third floor, said he is not concerned about catching the virus because he hasn't been in contact with Rainaldi and therefore is not going to take the free medicine being provided for floor residents.

"I'm not worried about it," Crafton said. "I am well-informed about the symptoms and risks of the disease and I have not been around Lou in over two days, so I am perfectly safe."

Todd Rayburn, another third floor resident, didn't share the Crafton's optimism.

"I am concerned because we are all in such close contact and the symptoms are so slight for this deadly disease," Rayburn said.

Sinatra collapses during concert

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Frank Sinatra collapsed face down on stage Sunday while singing "My Way." He recovered quickly and waved feebly to the cheering crowd as he was wheeled off stage.

Susan Reynolds, Sinatra's spokeswoman, said he "became overheated and passed out for a few moments. Mr. Sinatra's vital signs are stable. He is talking and is alert." Sinatra, 78, was taken to the Medical College of Virginia Hospitals by ambulance. He arrived about 10:20 p.m. and was wheeled into the emergency room on a gurney.

A supervising doctor who would not give his name said Sinatra would be held overnight for observation. The hospital did not immediately release Sinatra's condition.

Sinatra collapsed towards the end of his second sold-out show at the city-owned Richmond Mosque auditorium.

and displayed symptoms Walker thought might be meningitis.

"He had symptoms of nausea, vomiting and dizziness," Walker said. "And I thought it might be meningitis."

Walker said he carried Rainaldi into the emergency room at Sarah Bush, where doctors began conducting tests and taking X-rays.

"The doctor started ruling out possibilities and came in about three hours later and said, 'No more contact,'" Walker said. "Then they asked me to leave the room and make a list of people (Rainaldi) had been in contact with in the past couple of days.

"I knew he was pretty sick," Walker said. "His blood pressure was 89 over 40 and normal is about 120 over 80."

Hencken said he was contacted at 4:30 a.m. and organized a meeting of university officials, who later met with 10 resident assistants, 60 of Rainaldi's floor-mates to tell them to take precautions.

Other symptoms of the disease include a change in personality or a skin rash of small, purplish-red dots that appear in the later stages of infection, Larson said. The bacteria typically takes 24 to 36 hours to manifest itself in an individual who has been exposed, Larson said.

Transmission of the disease is most likely to occur with direct contact such as coughing, sneezing, kissing or sharing eating utensils or drinking glasses.

The meningococcal bacteria cannot usually live for more than a few minutes outside the body and cannot usually be transmitted in water supplies or by routine contact in public places, Larson said.

Most people have a natural resistance to meningitis, he added. About 100 cases are reported annually statewide.

ered hazing, according to the student conduct code.

McCoy was allegedly out drinking when he either stumbled or was pushed into a pile of lime behind Gano Welding Supplies, 320 Railroad Ave.

The lime is a byproduct of the manufacture of acetylene, a gas used in cutting torches and welders, said Jerry Ellis, an Eastern chemistry professor. Lime is generally not caustic, but impu-rities or prolonged exposure to the chemical may cause burns, Ellis said.

The lime McCoy was found in is stored in a fenced-off area behind the welding shop.

Charleston police officer Jerry Woods saw McCoy in the lime pile around 7 a.m. Sunday and took him to the police station. McCoy was taken by ambulance to Sarah Bush Lincoln hospital and later transferred to Carle Foundation Hospital in Urbana. From there, he was taken to Springfield.

Health Service offers preventive medicine

By BRIAN HUCHEL
Staff writer

Eastern's Health Service is distributing preventive medicine to students who may have been in direct contact with an Eastern student who died from meningitis Sunday.

Lou Rainaldi, a 20-year-old sophomore from Darien who lived in Taylor Hall, died Sunday night at Carle Foundation Hospital in Urbana after being diagnosed with meningococcemia, a form of meningitis, early Sunday morning. Rainaldi was taken to Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center in Mattoon and later transferred to Carle.

The Health Service is distributing an oral antibiotic called Rifampin to those individuals who have come in close contact with Rainaldi.

As part of Health Service's policy, those students who were in personal contact with Rainaldi will receive the Rifampin pills free of charge. Other students will be charged $1.50 per dose. The medicine's pharmacy cost is about $4.

Because Health Service had only enough Rifampin on hand to treat 250 patients, officials ordered an additional 10,000 pills from a Kansas City, Mo., supplier. The shipment is expected to arrive on campus today and will provide enough treatment for about 1,250 patients.

Meningococcemia is the most dangerous form of meningitis, a severe blood infection. Symptoms of the disease include a fever of more than 101 degrees, sudden and severe headaches, neck and/or back stiffness, rashes resembling bruises on the armpits, groin and ankles, and vomiting and mental behavior changes such as agitation, confusion or coma.

Meningococcemia can enter the bloodstream, causing internal bleeding in organs such as the eyes, heart and lungs and problems with the central nervous system, specifically the brain and spinal cord.

Health Service Director Dr. Richard Larson said only students who have come in close contact with Rainaldi are in danger of contracting the disease.

"Things like classroom contact and just walking by the individual on campus are not considered close contact," Larson said.

Rainaldi did not necessarily contract meningitis from another student because the disease may lie dormant in the throat and surface unexpectedly, Larson added.

The Illinois Department of Public Health says the disease is spread by direct contact such as coughing, sneezing, kissing or sharing eating utensils or drinking glasses with someone who is carrying the bacteria in their saliva and nasal fluids.

Despite the use of Rifampin as a prevention treatment, the medicine has several side effects including diarrhea, stomach cramps and discoloration of urine, stool, saliva, sweat and tears. Students are also told not to consume alcohol or use certain medicines within a six-hour period of taking Rifampin.

Rifampin can also inhibit or prevent the effect of birth-control pills.

Because of Rainaldi's meningitis infection, the university is posting press releases around campus explaining the case along with posters describing meningitis.

Stix raises entry age to 21

By DAVID M. PUTNEY
City editor

Saying that the city's bar-entry age is "unworkable," a local bar owner and member of Charleston's alcohol task force announced Friday that he is raising his bar-entry age from 19 to 21.

Don Yost, co-owner of Stix Restaurant, Bar and Banquet Facility, 1412 Fourth St., said Friday the new bar-entry age for Stix is effective immediately.

Despite his efforts to comply with city ordinances, he said fear of getting caught in an underage drinking compliance check by city officials led to the age change.

"I didn't want to give up," Yost said. "We thought we were on top of the situation enough that we would gain their respect."

Stix was cited Thursday for allegedly serving alcohol to an underage police informant during a regular compliance check by the Charleston Police. Because it is its second citation in 12 months, Stix faces a $500 fine or seven-day license suspension if found guilty.

Yost said he had planned to begin enforcing Stix's 21-year-old bar-entry age today, but he decided to move the date up after the raid.

"The 19-year-old entry age is a built-in lose-lose situation," Yost said. "We catch about 97 percent of underage people. In any other business 97 percent would be a winner, but we are a loser."

Two local bars were cited Thursday for serving an underage informant after a compliance check by Charleston Police.

Stix Restaurant, Bar and Banquet Facility, 1412 Fourth St., and Panther Lounge, 1421 Fourth St., were both cited for allegedly serving alcohol to a 19-year-old police informant Thursday evening.

Because both bars have been cited previously for serving underage patrons, they both face a $500 fine or a seven-day license suspension.

Yost said that he didn't think his own decision to raise entry age in his bar would influence the alcohol task force's decision about the city's bar-entry age.

"I'm still not convinced moving it from 19 to 21 is going to be a simple answer," he said. "I haven't really made up my mind how I'll vote."

Yost said he told Mayor Dan Cougill Wednesday that he had decided to raise Stix's bar-entry age.

"We met and he said he might be considering the move," Cougill said.

Cougill said the compliance checks at Stix were part of a normal compliance check schedule. Cougill said he couldn't comment on how Yost's decision might be viewed by the rest of the liquor commission.

Yost said Stix will mark restaurant customers and billiards players with a red stamp on the hand. From opening time at 11 a.m. until 9 p.m., underage customers will be allowed in the bar. However, at 9 p.m. all underage patrons will be required to leave the bar.

Transcript delivery service benefits students

A 24-hour delivery service for student transcripts at Eastern is an idea whose time has come.

Eastern administrators realize this, as they demonstrated when they promoted and supported plans to begin a 24-hour delivery service by July or the start of the fall semester.

Editorial

"The plan sounds like a great idea to me," Eastern President David Jorns said. "I think the (University of Illinois) has this service. It should provide a service to the students."

The plan Jorns refers to is a proposed 24-hour service which will guarantee overnight delivery of student transcripts for a $10 user fee. The 24-hour service will also provide same-day or next-day delivery for transcripts, FAXing proof of graduation, attendance verification and other important documents that need to be distributed immediately.

The $10 required fee will pay administrative workers to prepare express transcripts.

Currently, students have to fill out request forms transcripts and other school records. The requests are filled on a first come, first serve basis.

Lou Hencken, vice president for student affairs, presented the proposed service to the Student Senate at a Feb. 23 senate meeting where it was supported by members of Student Government. One member of Student Government commented that in the past, it has not been unusual during some busier months for transcripts to take up to three or four weeks for delivery.

But as anyone looking for job in the highly competitive job market knows, three or four weeks is simply too long to wait. Eastern students and graduates are placed at a disadvantage if they have to wait several weeks for their transcripts when U of I students already have the 24-hour service at their disposal.

The service will likely improve students' potential for job opportunities by making students' records more readily available to them and prospective employers.

In an age of rapid technological advances where speed is prized, students deserve better than waiting on an outdated system.

High school attitudes are hard to outgrow

For many of us, the only thing keeping us awake in class, up to date with our homework and enthusiastic about being here is the thought that spring break is only two arduous weeks away.

But awaiting us in that pleasurable week of relaxation are echoes of our past that many of us don't want to hear. Some of the more discomfiting things about going back home are the high school memories and hometown stereotypes we thought we had put behind us.

While most of us go through a maturation and transformation while we're away at school, we all seemingly return to what we once were when we go home. Even though we still feel that collegiate maturation, we feel oddly tied to the high school lifestyle.

And while I find it gruesomely entertaining when old friends and school-time rivals are listed in the local police blotter, it gets harder and harder to face old friends I have fallen out of touch with.

I have, for the most part, kept track of my high school friends. But we still feel an awkwardness toward each other. We are all new people, different from the schoolkids we were just a few years ago. Some of them are college students, others are out on the job, and others are married and have children.

Few of us want to return to the class clown, stereotyped jock or super-brain that we were in high school. But somehow it always comes back to that when you return home or see your friends.

When returning to your hometown, you have feelings of nostalgia. You try to get people together to return to the old places you used to hang out at, or even return to your high school. The depressing thing is, other people now occupy your old hangouts, and there are few faces in the school that you remember —

Chris Seper

or who want to remember you.

We've all grown up and moved on. And, unfortunately or not, coming home is the harshest reminder of this fact.

Sadly enough, you can see the affects high school has had in many people. For some of us, we keep that I'm-known-by-everyone attitude even though they have come to a school of 10,000 people and 70 percent of us could care less who they are.

Then there are others who are held back by the harsh words and cruel actions of people that kept them down in high school. Even now, some of these people struggle to break away from a tarnished self-image that was branded on them years ago.

Others even return home and use their formerly prominent reputations in high school as a suave to cover over wounds in college — whether it be a lack of friends, academic success or happiness.

Of course there other factors in our past that affect who we are, and the three aforementioned scenarios are part of a widely-varying spectrum. Our parents, siblings and pre-high school experiences also contributed to who we are. But so many of us harken back to the glory days of high school, and most of us will still face our friends, childish reputations, and the stereotypes we were forced into during those four years.

We'd all like to think we do not hold the numerous high school-hindering attitudes, but in some ways we all do.

Many of us are often chained down by our high school experiences. During spring break, we may be captured again.

Columnist failed to understand Farrakhan message

Dear editor:

Ignorance again has ripped our mass media with the disturbing March 1 column "Islamic leader spreads message of paranoia." Sherry Sidwell began by taunting the Nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan's quote on National Savior's Day.

True, Farrakhan makes comments of the true identities of America, but as demonstrated, nobody is ready for the truth. Farrakhan does not promote hatred. Hatred is the easiest word to describe what you don't understand. When you use the word hatred, you try to spark some type of emotion in readers.

Farrakhan does not accept the description, and neither do I. You mention that Farrakhan has a natural paranoia of every group, but don't you know Farrakhan, with all of his glory and power over thousands of followers, has no need for paranoia? He looks for no conspiracies, he looks for no bad intentions, but they always find him.

I do not follow Farrakhan, but I do follow Islam with great devotion and respect. I respect him as one of the greatest leaders in this corrupt country. He is truthful, he seeks the truth, he finds the truth, he tells the truth — that is what frightens you.

Cartoon depiction of basketball coach was insulting

Dear editor:

I found the "cartoon" in the March 3 edition of The Daily Eastern News depicting Eastern's head basketball coach as a loser very insulting. It amazes me that an individual can take it upon himself to critique a university coach and abuse him all in the name of humor.

It must not be enough for you that Samuels is closing in on the all-time win total in school history, graduates his student athletes at a rate much higher than the national average and (Do we have a short memory?) led the Panthers to the NCAA tournament just two short years ago?

Has the cartoonist ever coached in his life? Does he know how to break a full-court 1-2-2 zone press? Could the cartoonist be as successful with the budget Samuels operates under when other schools' budgets are significantly more? What about the high academic standards that Eastern possesses that prevent some student athletes from attending our school when other universities gladly accept those athletes?

It is very easy to sit back and ridicule members of our coaching staff when you have absolutely no clue what it takes to achieve what Samuels has over the last decade and a half.

Samuels has demonstrated a high level of class in his tenure at Eastern, something the cartoonist obviously lacks.

Too costly

Senate speaker wants investigation of tuition waiver benefits, drawbacks

By NATALIE GOTT
Staff writer

In hopes of reducing Student Government's annual budget, Senate Speaker Bobby Smith is drafting a resolution asking for a committee to investigate the pros and cons of Student Government executive-staff tuition waivers.

Smith said Sunday he thinks the tuition waivers are too costly.

They also may be "too large of an incentive" for potential executive staff candidates, motivating students to campaign for the wrong reasons.

"I have people say, 'I would like to be a Student Government executive because I would get a tuition waiver,'" Smith said. "That is not the way it should be."

The five executives and speaker of the senate are awarded tuition waivers from student activity fees for their service to Student Government.

Smith has held a tuition waiver since last fall.

"The tuition waiver helped me, but I could have done it without it," Smith said. "Some other people might not be able to, though."

Executive positions are student body president, executive vice president, financial vice president, chief of staff and Board of Governors representative. Smith is proposing to take steps to abolish the tuition waivers by fall 1995.

Some senate members said if the waivers are abolished, students will be less likely to run for Student Government positions.

"I have people say, 'I would like to be a Student Government executive because I would get a tuition waiver.'"

— Bobby Smith
Senate Speaker

Although Matt Giordano, Student Government chief of staff, said he supports Smith's resolution, he warned that abolishing tuition waivers could discourage some competition for Student Government positions.

"A lot of students need the financial aid," Giordano said. "A lot of other students would have to find a job off campus."

Senate member Lance Phillips said he agrees the tuition waivers should be studied.

"Some might disagree," Phillips said. "I think that is good because the students don't want someone to represent them if they (the Student Government executive) only want a tuition waiver."

Senate member Lisa Garrison said she favors abolishing the tuition waivers if it is the main incentive for a Student Government executive staff prospect.

"It gets away from the meaning to run for a Student Government executive position," Garrison said.

"I think you should really want to run, not just for the tuition waiver."

Officials reject athletic cuts

CHICAGO (AP) — Nine state university presidents have signed a letter rejecting a Board of Higher Education demand that state funds not be used for intercollegiate athletics.

Signers include top officials from all of Illinois' public schools except Governors State, which has no intercollegiate athletic program, and the University of Illinois campuses at Urbana and Chicago, which already use no state money.

"Currently, the relatively small investment of state-appropriated funds in athletics results in a significant net benefit over cost that bring financial, public relations, student recruitment and education benefits to Illinois public higher education," the presidents said in a statement.

The Board of Higher Education told universities to phase out state funding for intercollegiate athletics by 1996.

A compromise was expected, but board officials said Friday's statement was no compromise.

"It's not what we expected," said board Chairman Arthur N. Quern. "It's a response that reflects positions they have taken before."

Western Illinois University would be most affected by the cuts.

WIU's athletic program gets more than 56 percent, or $1.09 million, from state funding.

Schools fight gun problem

By The Associated Press

Guns in schools may sound like a big city problem, but smaller Illinois communities are seeing it too, and some of them are taking a get-tough stance that calls for the arrest and suspension of armed students.

"We can't pretend it doesn't exist in our nice, sweet suburbs," said Miriam Cooper, president of northwest suburban Chicago District 214.

Eight students in the district were suspended two weeks ago, after a Feb. 18 fight on a school bus. An investigation turned up a .38-caliber and a .357 Magnum revolver that belong to a suburban police officer, who is the father of one of the students.

The youngsters, from Wheeling High School, were arrested on a variety of charges, and District 214 is scheduled next week to consider expelling them.

In Mount Vernon last month, an 18-year-old student was expelled for the rest of the year for simply having a shotgun in his car.

Mount Vernon Superintendent Pat Garrett said the gun was found Jan. 4 in the student's vehicle parked on campus. He said the youngster didn't threaten anyone.

In other cases:

•Two Streamwood High School students face expulsion hearings in Elgin-area Unit District 46 after their arrest Feb. 11 for bringing a .25-caliber semi-automatic handgun to school.

•Two Rolling Meadows High School students were expelled by District 214 after their arrest for firing a gun in the air during an argument outside a community basketball game at Forest View Educational Center in Arlington Heights on Jan. 20.

Women's poetry forum to be held today

By ADAM McHUGH
Activities editor

Focusing on women's place in society is the objective of a presentation today for Women's History and Awareness Month.

"Women as Poets: Poets as Women," which is sponsored by Eastern's Women Studies Council, will begin at 4 p.m. in the Charleston-Mattoon Room of the Martin Luther King Jr.

University Union.

Olga Abella, an associate professor in the English department, will moderate the forum.

"This presentation shows that women have different talents, especially through these works," Abella said.

Five local poets will read original pieces and other works that focus on women's history.

"We are using a different medium to explain women in society today, other than music or talks which are common to this history month," Abella said.

The five women who will perform the works include Eastern faculty and students. Featured poets are faculty members Linda Calendrillo and Mary Herrington-Perry, graduate student Sue Songer, and undergraduates Diane Unes and Kelly Murrin.

Murrin, a junior English major, said one of her professors asked her to perform in the activity.

"When I heard about the presentation, it sounded like it would show the deeper parts of women, such as emotions," Murrin said.

Abella said although poetry is personal, the messages portrayed in the works can represent many.

"All of these works should have a significant meaning to a lot of women, and that is a personal message," Abella said.

Bosnia claims Serbs bombed Muslim targets

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — A NATO jet swooped over a besieged northern town Sunday after Bosnian state radio claimed Serb warplanes destroyed a bridge in an attack similar to the one that provoked NATO retaliation.

With Serb troops barring access to Maglaj, there was no way for NATO or U.N. officials to visit the site to check the claim that planes attacked the Muslim-held town about 40 miles north of Sarajevo. But NATO officers raised questions about the report.

Squadron Leader John

Jeffery, a NATO spokesman in Naples, Italy, said early warning aircraft did not detect any air attack on Maglaj.

"If we had, we would have taken action," he said.

Such a raid would be a flagrant violation of the no-fly zone imposed by the U.N. Security Council over Bosnia. It also would be a challenge to NATO, which has been patrolling the zone since April and has begun showing a new resolve to act forcibly against warring parties in the former Yugoslav state.

Last Monday, two U.S. Air Force F-16 fighters shot down four Bosnian Serb fighter-bombers in central Bosnia that U.N. officials said were attacking Bosnian government targets.

A NATO official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said visibility was too poor when the two bombing runs reportedly took place for accurate attacks on a bridge. NATO reconnaissance aircraft also flew over the area around the time the second bombing run was reported but saw nothing, he said.

Bosnian Serbs ridiculed the Muslim-led government's claim, accusing the Bosnian army of faking an air strike.

"There have been no (air) bombardments of Maglaj," said a statement from the Bosnian Serb military in Banja Luka.

"The so-called Army of Bosnia-Herzegovina, following its old recipe, sets fire to heaps of old tires, wishing to create an impression of bombardment of the town."

Bosnian radio and neighboring Croatia's HINA news agency said Serb planes targeted Maglaj's only bridge, which spans the Bosna river, and destroyed it. HINA said its story was based on reports from ham radio operators in Maglaj.

Gen. Rasim Delic, commander of the Bosnian army, reported the alleged bombing to Lt. Gen. Sir Michael Rose, commander of U.N. peacekeepers in Bosnia, and demanded "more effective" NATO action.

Bosnian radio said Serb artillery also shelled Maglaj after the air attack.

Male runners fail to qualify

By BRIAN HARRIS
Staff writer

Despite a strong showing by all Friday, none of Eastern's four entrants in Indiana's last chance track meet made the NCAA qualification standards in their respective events.

Senior Obadiah Cooper, the closest Panther to qualifying, met the NCAA provisional standard in the 55-meter dash in January, but got a bad start in his 55 preliminary heat and did not advance to the final.

Cooper was also entered in the 200, was third in 21.72 seconds, his second fastest performance of the season, but missed the national qualifying time by .22 second.

Freshman Kert McAfee, who had gone undefeated in the 400, lost his first race Friday and placed third with a time of 49.48. It was McAfee's eighth clocking under 50 seconds this season and just shy of his best of 49.30, but he was nearly two seconds short of qualifying.

Senior Neal Trentman was shooting for 7 feet in the high jump, having gone 6-10 1/4 the week before, but could manage only 6-7 Friday night to finish sixth.

Junior Nate Shaffer ran his career best in the mile to place third at 4:10.21, just 3.21 seconds off the NCAA standard. The time ranks Shaffer eighth on Eastern's all-time list.

"No one completely bombed out," said head coach Neil Moore. "It was disappointing, there's no doubt about that. Now we have to start preparing for the outdoor season. You can't dwell on these disappointments."

The Panthers' outdoor season will begin over spring vacation at the Alabama Relays March 25-27.

Women finish indoor season

By JOHN COX
Staff writer

The Lady Panthers finished their indoor track season with a stellar performance Saturday at the Indiana TAC Meet.

Tiffany Jansen tied Eastern's high jump record of 5 feet 8 inches and took first place.

"That jump was two inches higher than she's ever jumped before in competition," assistant coach Mary Ohl said. "She and this Indiana State jumper were the only two left and the Indiana State girl passed on 5'8."

"Tiffany cleared it and it was great. She was bouncing off the ceiling. Hopefully that will earn her some respect."

Kala Scott is another Lady Panther who has commanded respect is Kala Scott. Scott took first in the triple jump (37-2 1/4) and in the long jump (18-5).

"Last weekend, she broke the fieldhouse record, but she had a couple of scratches that threw her off a little bit, but she continued to dominate," Ohl said.

The jumpers had quite a day, but the distance runners were not to be outdone. Kiya Thomas continued her reign in the 3000-meter run by gliding into a first-place finish in 10 minutes 19 seconds.

One of the woman in the 3000 listed a time of 10 minutes flat as her best, so head coach John Craft had Thomas stay with her throughout the race. When Thomas wore out her competitor, Thomas was told to stay behind her and not to lead.

Finally, Thomas blew by her with a quarter mile left and won convincingly and with a little something left.

"She was a little disappointed," Ohl said. "But she blew her away in the last quarter."

The fact that Thomas had something left in her proved to be advantageous. Thomas, the second leg of the distance medley relay, ran her personal best in the mile (5:22) and helped the medley to an impressive second-place finish.

"Carey Dunker, who's normally a miler, ran the first 800 leg of the race and ran a personal best of 2:26," Ohl said. "Then Kala took out the second leg, a 400, and ran her fastest time of 60 seconds flat. She did that right after all of her jumps, so she was really happy."

Amy Bersig came through with a strong third leg and Thomas closed the door for the second-place finish.

Ohl said the competition at the meet wasn't as strong as she anticipated but proved to be a very healthy meet for the team in more ways than one.

"I thought the competition was going to be a lot stiffer, so we didn't bring as many people as we could have," Ohl said. "We probably could have taken some more of our sprinters, but we decided to give them a week off anyway so they could heal their shin splints for the outdoor season."

Male netters win third straight

The Eastern men's tennis team captured its third-straight match victory in its home-opening contest against Vincennes University in Lantz Fieldhouse Thursday night.

The day of the meet was incorrectly reported as being Saturday in Friday's Daily Eastern News.

The Panthers captured four of their six singles matches and the only doubles match of the day, taking a 5-2 victory over the Trailblazers.

According to head coach John Bennett, the win over Vincennes was the first win over the Indiana school in the 15 years that Eastern has been competing against it.

Capturing victories for the Panthers were: sophomore Dennis Alexander (No. 3); junior Pat Mellin (No. 4), who won a three and-one-half hour triumph over Spencer Rittercamp 7-6, 4-6, 6-4; freshman Jason Hotsinpiller (No. 5); and Jeff Lindstrom (No. 6).

Racking up the doubles victory was the duo of Alexander and Hotsinpiller, a 6-3, 7-5 triumph over Sean Steinhauser and Scott Ficks. Alexander had defeated Ficks in his singles match.

"There were some moments where we could have gave up, but we really held in there and fought hard," Bennett said. "The guys wanted to keep the winning streak going."

"Not giving up is almost as important as winning. The effort I saw today was very encouraging."

Women's tennis team Panthers rolls in season opener

By MATT MORFOOT
Staff writer

Northeastern Illinois University proved no match for the Eastern women's tennis team Saturday as the Lady Panther netters shutout Northeastern 9-0, 9-0 in two matches.

In the first match, top singles player and senior co-captain Theresa Ramage defeated Northeastern's Kristin Hinkforth 6-0, 6-0.

Junior co-captain Samantha Wulfers scored a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Heather Sachs in the first match and a win over Hinkforth by the same score in the second match.

Junior Melissa Welch, the last of the three co-captains, defeated Kim Baglione in the second match 6-0, 6-0.

Terra Erickson recorded victories over Northeastern's Lori Pickle 6-0, 6-0, and Sachs 6-0, 6-1.

Geeta Dua shutout Pickle and Tiffany Goski 6-0, 6-0.

In the first match, sophomores

Kristy Sims and Stephanie Sullivan scored wins over Northeastern's Karen Gill and Baglione 6-0, 6-0, respectively.

Sims scored a second victory in match two by defeating Tiffani Boslui 6-0, 6-1. Sullivan also won her second match, defeating Gill 6-0, 6-0.

In first-match doubles play, the team of Ramage-Wulfers defeated Hinkforth-Pickle 6-0, 6-1. Welch and Sims defeated Sachs-Goski 6-0, 6-0, and the final team of Dua-Erickson recorded a victory over Gill-Baglione by the same score.

In second-match doubles play, Erickson-Dua defeated Hinkforth-Pickle 6-0, 6-0. Wulfers and Ramage defeated Sachs-Goski 6-1, 6-0, while Sims-Welch blanked Gill-Baglione 6-0, 6-0.

"The team played strong and we just overmatched Northeastern overall," head coach John Ross said.

The team travels to face Bradley University on Wednesday.

In Saturday's game, the Panthers evened their season mark at 1-1 behind a strong pitching performance from senior righthander Mike Fahey.

Fahey pitched seven scoreless innings, gave up just three hits and struck out five while walking none. The game was shortened to seven innings because the previous one had gone 11.

"Mike Fahey pitched one of the better games I've seen since I've been here," Callahan said. "It ranks up there as one of the three or four most impressive."

"He went 3-2 on one hitter, and I think that was the only time he had a three-ball count on anyone."

Callahan said Fahey had good offensive and defensive support behind him to aid in the win.

"We played good defense, and we had a couple of timely at bats," Callahan said.

First baseman Keith Mierzwa was 3-for-3 with an RBI and a run scored to lead the Panthers offensively.

"I'm happy with the way Mierzwa came out of the gates," Callahan said. "He looks like he's swinging the bat well."

The picture wasn't as pretty for the Panthers Sunday.

Eastern made seven errors and managed just six hits in limping to an 8-3 loss to Eastern Michigan.

"(Sunday's) game was just a nightmare," Callahan said. "We didn't swing the bats well, our defense was atrocious and, in a nutshell, we were pathetic today."

"We didn't hit the ball well enough to win, but (even if we had,) our defense just took us out of the game. If we don't kick the ball around like it's a soccer game, then it's a closer game."

The Panthers avoided a scare in the fourth inning when starting pitcher Andy Keefner was hit on the back of his pitching hand by a liner up the middle.

"One of our trainers determined that it wasn't broken, so he stayed in there, and he pitched a couple more innings," Callahan said. "But it started to tighten up on him, so we took him out in the seventh."

"But the pitching was decent. Keefner pitched six strong innings."

Designated hitter Rob Nicholes went 2-for-5 for one of the Panthers' only bright spots at the plate.

Eastern Michigan finished with a 1-2 record. Southern was 2-0 and Iowa 1-1 heading into their game Sunday, the finale of the tournament.

Fahey and Mierzwa were named to the all-tournament team.

sive rebound and layup with 7:54 left.

Then Valpo picked up the pace. Redmond nailed a three from the left wing to make the score 54-45.

After that, Barker caught fire, sandwiching two three-pointers around two Cavanaugh free throws, giving the Crusaders a 65-50 lead and the ballgame for good with 2:50 left.

"In the second half we couldn't score," said Leib. "Our defense held, but they kept chipping away."

In the end, Young, who had perhaps his best game of the season with 16 points and 12 rebounds in his final performance with the Panthers, kept it simple and honest.

"We tried," said the senior center. "That's all I can say. We just tried."

Valparaiso also held a decisive edge in the number of free throws, hitting on 25-of-32 attempts in the game. The Crusaders shot 21-of-25 (84 percent) from the free-throw line in the second half.

"There was a great disparity on the number of free throws," Samuels said.

the scoring action, as her three-pointer gave Eastern its biggest lead — a 50-33 decision with 4:14 remaining in the first half.

But in the second half, Valparaiso was too much for the Lady Panthers to handle.

team was able to score until the bottom of the 11th, when Indiana's Aimee Lonigro knocked in Misty Mager to give the Hoosiers the victory.

In the second contest, the University of Missouri defeated the Panthers in five-inning contest by a score of 9-0.

In other tournament games:

- Top-seeded Wisconsin-Green Bay downed No. 8 Western 79-39, a new Mid-Continent Conference Tournament record for margin of victory.

- No. 4 Cleveland State nipped No. 5 Wright State 70-67.

- The University of Illinois-Chicago, No. 2, topped seventh-seeded Northern 87-77.

Tonight's schedule has Wisconsin-Green Bay playing Cleveland State at 6:30.

Valpo will then face UIC at 8:30. Both games are semifinals.

The winners of those two games will play for the conference tournament championship 6:30 Tuesday night with the winner advancing to the NCAA Tournament.

Tuesday's championship game will be televised on ESPN.

"But we did not make any of the ones we shot either."

Valparaiso was also dangerous from the three-point line. The Crusaders hit 9-of-23 three-points shots for a 39 percent clip.

"In the first half, their shots were not falling for them," said Curtis Leib of Valparaiso's 36 percent first-half field goal percentage. "The second half they shot a little better, but that is no excuse for us losing."

it would seem obvious why Valparaiso outscored the Lady Panthers 50-24 in the second half.

Other contributors for Eastern included Tourrie Frazier, who had 10 points and seven rebounds, and Sarah Probst who also had 10 points.

After their final game of the season the Lady Panthers' final record is 5-21 overall and 3-15 in the Mid-Continent Conference.

With two outs in the third inning, Cherveny's single provided the lone hit for Eastern. Although senior Coli Turley's walk advanced Cherveny to second, Hutson's ground out to second dashed any Panther hopes for scoring.

The Panthers next contest will be March 18, as they travel to Tallahassee, Fla. to participate in the Florida State Invitational.

Panthers bow out of tourney

Defensive changes fail to help

By RANDY LISS

ROSEMONT — The Panthers tried to do it 'the hard' way Sunday night.

Rather than playing athletic basketball as it has all season, Eastern used hard fouls and a physical defense to try to muscle its way past a Valparaiso team that finished second in the Mid-Continent Conference in scoring during the regular season.

But it didn't work. The Crusader backcourt of Rob Cavanaugh and Lance Barker combined to score 31 points on 11-for-17 shooting, and Valpo gunned down the Panthers 74-62 in the first round of the Mid-Con tourney at the Rosemont Horizon.

The loss marks the second consecutive year that Eastern (12-15) has gone down in the quarterfinal round of the conference tournament. Valparaiso improved to 20-7.

Eastern held Crusader forwards Casey Schmidt and David Redmon, the fourth and fifth leading scorers in the league, to 5-for-28 shooting. But Cavanaugh and Barker each went 4-for-6 from three-point land, scoring 18 and 13 points, respectively.

"That's what makes Valparaiso such a good team," said Panther coach Rick Samuels. "They have an excellent basketball team and a very unselfish style of play. Cavanaugh is a tough kid and is capable of picking up the slack."

"I thought David and Casey struggled from the floor, so it is our job to pick up the slack," said Barker.

The Panthers went with a front court of Andre Rodriguez, Curtis Leib and Darrell

Young much of the game, and used a punishing style of defense that forced Valpo into 35-percent shooting in the first half.

Eastern used that defense and a Young jumper at the buzzer to pull up at the half within one point at 28-27.

"You have to compliment Eastern because they really outplayed us in the first half," said Crusader coach Homer Drew. "But it was a very, very physical game. And I thought our players responded to that very well in the second half."

The Panthers came out strong in the second half, but Valpo starting hitting its shots.

A number of hard fouls by Eastern led to some Crusader free throws, and the Panthers misfired on a bunch of their own foul shots. Valparaiso opened up a 51-41 lead with 9:12 to play in regulation.

Eastern showed some character though and pulled to within 51-46 on a Young offen-

ROSEMONT — It's fitting that the Eastern men's basketball season ended as the result of a problem the team has had all season — its shooting percentage.

This time Eastern's shooting percentage from the floor and from the free-throw line helped end the Panthers' season as Valparaiso cruised to a first-round Mid-Continent Conference Tournament victory.

Eastern shot just 42 percent from the free-throw line, making only 8-of-19 free throws attempted. The Panthers shot 66 percent from the line during the regular season and just 63 percent over their last seven games.

"In the final analysis, we have to look at two weaknesses that we've had all year," Eastern head coach Rick Samuels said. "That's the three-point shot and free-throw shooting."

The Panthers shot a respectable 45 percent from the floor, up from their 43 percent season average.

Darrell Young led the Panthers with 16 points on 7-for-11 shooting.

Valparaiso's performance from the free-throw line only helped expedite Eastern's departure from the tournament. The Crusaders shot only

The Eastern baseball team finished with a 1-2 record in this weekend's four-team Carbondale Tournament.

The Panthers lost to the host team 8-7 Friday, beat Iowa 3-0 Saturday and then fell to Eastern Michigan 8-3 Sunday.

In Friday's game, Eastern's season opener, the Panthers led throughout the game until reliever Joe Keusch surrendered a three-run home run in the bottom of the eighth.

"We thought we had the right guy in at the right time," head coach Dan Callahan said. "He just happened to get a pitch up, and the kid got it up in the wind a little bit."

"But that's the nature of being a reliever — sometimes you get the job done, and sometimes you don't. That's just one of those instances when he didn't."

The Panthers were unable to score in the top of the ninth and lost by the 8-7 final.

"We swung the bats well for the first time out," Callahan said. "But our defense was a little shaky."

Second baseman Tony Grillo was 2-for-2 with a home run, three RBI and two runs scored after replacing an injured Melesio Salazar. Jason Jetel was 2-for-4 with a double, an RBI and a run scored. Steve Dunlop went 3-for-5 and Ty Ziegler 2-for-3.

Eastern's softball team dropped their first two contests of the season Saturday in the Southern Classic at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale.

Sunday's results against Bowling Green State and Western Illinois Universities were not available at press time.

In the first game of the day, the Panthers endured 11 innings against Indiana University before losing 6-5 against the Big Ten opponent.

Eastern was first on the scoreboard as Shannon Hutson's triple drove home freshman Jennifer Cherveney to make the score 1-0.

But the Hoosiers then scored five times in the same inning as they then claimed a 5-1 advantage.

Neither team scored until the seventh, as Eastern knotted the score at 5 with four runs in the top of the inning. Although Eastern batted around in the frame, they only had two hits.

The game went into extra innings as neither

Lady Panthers drop season finale, 94-82

It's been a season of almosts for the Lady Panthers, and Saturday's contest versus Valparaiso no different.

The Lady Panthers dropped their final contest of the season to Valparaiso University by a score of 94-82 at Valparaiso's Athletes-Recreation Center.

Although Eastern held a 58-44 advantage at halftime, the Lady Crusaders (14-12, 10-8) slowly chipped away at the deficit until Valparaiso's Shari Toelke hit a three-pointer giving them a 74-72 advantage with 6 minutes 45 seconds remaining.

From there, the lead saw-sawed until the Lady Crusaders went on a 9-0 run that gave them an 87-77 lead with only 1:08 left.

Head coach John Klein realized that even though Eastern's lead reached 17 points, no lead is safe.

"Our best half of basketball was in the first half," said Klein. "But Valparaiso came out in the second half and took advantage off our missed shots."

The bulk of Valparaiso's scoring came from Sarah Schmoyer and Michelle Russell.

Schmoyer attained a "double-double" Saturday, as she poured in a game-high 26 points while collecting 10 rebounds. Russell had 25 points and four assists.

Eastern dominated the first half thanks in part to Shannon Baugh and Nicky Polka.

Baugh, a senior from Davenport, Iowa, netted 26 points and eight rebounds. Polka, a junior guard from Greendale, Wis., collected a career-high 11 assists and 13 points.

Kenya Green also got into
